INTRODUCTION

The idea to create a bibliographical index for the Carpatho-Rusyn American was proposed by the late Raymond M. Herbenick, professor emeritus, at the University of Dayton in Ohio. In 1991, he published a computerized index that covered the first eleven volumes (1978-1988) of the magazine. The present index drew on the work of Professor Herbenick but reconceptualized all of the entries and extended coverage for the entire twenty years of the publication's existence (1978-1997).

The Carpatho-Rusyn American was published by the Carpatho-Rusyn Research Center, Inc. based in New York. Its staff consisted of a wide range of Carpatho-Rusyn American volunteers living in various parts of the United States.
